```
with the toxer shorts around the anxiets. Since cultilarly test, the counter ROLLO So what's the prognosis, Fertile Myrtle? Minus or plus? JUNO (examination of the counter ROLLO So what's the prognosis, Fertile Myrtle? Minus or plus? JUNO (examination of the stops and the counter ROLLO So what's the prognosis, Fertile Myrtle? Minus or plus? JUNO (examination of the super Rope over a low-hanging tree branch, contempla burger-shaped phone to call her best friend, LEAH. INT. LEAH'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT LEAH's room is cluttered with the sentimental junk that certain girls love to there's that pink plus sign again. God, it's unholy. She shakes the stick desperately in an attempt to skew the results. Shake. Nothing, ROLLO That ain't no Etch-a-Sketch. This is one doodle that can't be undich, homeskillet. EXT. MAGGUFF HOUSE - JUNO'S BEDROOM - NIGHT Juno's BEDROOM is decorated with punk posters: The Damned, The Germs, the Stooges, Television, Richard Hell, etc. S cyo-yiggily-yo. JUNO I am a suicide risk. LEAH Is this Juno? JUNO No it's Morgan Freeman. Got any bones that need collecting? LEAH Only the one in my pants. JUNO (in low tones) Dude, I'm pregnant. LEAH Maybe it's just a food baby. Did d you're shockingly cavalier. LEAH Is this for real? Like for real? JUNO Unfortunately, yes. LEAH On my God! Oh shit! Phuket Thailand! JUNO That's the kind of emotion I was looking for in the first take. LEAH Well, are you going to you he picks up a hamburger-shaped phone to call her best friend, LEAH. INT. LEAH'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT LEAH's room is cluttered with the sentimental junk that certain girls love to hoard. The f you have a big lunch? JUNO It's not a food baby. I took three pregnancy tests today. I am definitely up the spout.LEAH how did you even generate enough pee for three pregnancy tests? JUNO I drank I o Havenbrooke or Women Now for the abortion? You need a note from your parents for Havenbrooke. JUNO I know. Women Now, I guess. The commercial says they help women now. LEAH Want me t s point. JUNO That is sick, man. Leah busts a gut laughing. It's a stunningly accurate portrayal of Bleeker's parents. LEAH So, you were bored? Is that how this blessed miracle came to be? JUNO Nah, it s, listening to a teacher lecturing about spanish. Bleeker discreetly pushes a POSTCARD to Juno with his foot. She picks it up off the floor, reads it, then looks at Bleeker, who is watching the teacher obe floent, maniffly. BLEEKER'S BEDROOM - MORNING CU of Bleeker putting on double socks in his Car-Bed. CU of Bleeker patting on his sweat bands. CU of Bleeker, who is watching Runner's Glide. INT. KTC is eating some kind of microwaved snack gimmick. Bleeker is startled to discover that Juno is outside waiting for him. She ha s somehow arranged the living room set on the front lawn, and is seated in the I don't know. JUNO I'm pregnant. Stunned silence. Juno pops up the footrest of the recliner and leans back comfortably. BLEEKER I guess so. (flidgeting) What are you going to do? The Dancing Elk Pri them naked, even if I don't want to. I have intrusive thoughts all the time. EXT. BLEEKER HOUSE - BLEEKER I'm supposed to be running. JUNO I know. There's an awkward silence. BLEEKER So, whi ah, wizard, I guess. I mean do what you think is right. JUNO I'm real sorry I had sex with you. I know it wasn't your idea. BLEEKER Whose idea was it' JUNO I'll see you at school, O.K.? She mounts her at Ora Armor you bought from the wizard doesn't have the power le very, year in in programs. All ground the programs and the programs and the programs are the programs and the programs and the programs are th y. JUNO Hey Bleek. BLEEKER Hey, cool tiger. Looks proud. JUNO Yeah, I swiped it from Ms. Rancick. BLEEKER Cool. JUNO Your shorts are looking especially gold today. BLEEKER My mom uses color-safe bleach. JUNO Go Carole. (a beat) So, guess what? I ker's house in a thundering herd, wearing a motley assortment of warm-ups. Their momentum stirs the crackling fall leaves. They wave and holler at Bleeker and Juno. JUNO V.O. When I see them all running like that, with their things bouncing around in their short thought I might, you know, nip it in the bud before it gets worse. Because I heard in health class three prepanety. Given the like rack and winds a lock around it. In the background, a group of 3 NERDS play a live-action RPG. NERD You did not! You don't ING ELK SC
HOL - HALLWAY - D AY Juno runmages through her locker, which is plastered with photos of Leah and Bleeker, plus a giant poster of Iggy Pop in his heyday. She grabs a dilapidated physics textbook. A few is klatch of buddies and moves along. JUNO V.O. The funny thing is that Steve Rendazo secretly wants me. Jocks like him always want freaky girls. Girls with horn-immed glasses and vegan footwear and Goth they're supposed to be into perfect cheerleaders like Leah. Who, incidentally, is into teachers. We see Leah at the far end of the hallway, talking animatedly with a paunchy middle-aged teacher, KEITH. LEAH (from a distance) Me too ur work.

e infirm
osh. S
just

osh. S
just

No' see Tan See Tem all running like that, we infirm which is plastered with photos of Leah and Bleeker, plus a giant poster of Iggy Pop in his heyday. She grabs a dilapidated physics textbook. A few moves along. JUNO V.O. The funny thing is that Steve Rendazo secretly wants me. Jocks like him always want freaky girls. Girls with horn-immed glasses and vegan footwear and Goth they're supposed to be into perfect cheerleaders like Leah. Who, incidentally, is into teachers. We see Leah at the far end of the hallway, talking animatedly with a paunchy middle-aged teacher, KEITH. LEAH (fr nchair, chewing a pipe office RENDAZO (the stand asstrole with orlardseed her as site walked to the dirigistorle plasses by in the fallaway. TeVE RENDAZO (the list) the cello and wear Converse AllStars and want to be children's librarians when they grow up. Oh yeah, jocks eat that shit up. We see Steve looking back at Juno for a brief second with mixed feel IT. DANCING ELK SCHOOL - SCIENCE LAB - DAY STUDENTS bustle in, as the teacher, MR. TINKER tries to maintain order. Juno heads toward her desk and sets down her bag, MR. TINKER OWNER of the sperimenting. BLEEKER I did the prep questions for this lab last night. You can copy my answers if you need to. He slides a piece of graph paper in front of Juno without loc mortess couple, join them at the station. JUNO So, who's ready for some photomagnificence? GIRL LAB PARTNER I have a menstrual migraine, and I can't look at bright lights today. GUY LAB I in papened. Because your eyes? Are very cold? They're very cold, Josh. They're cold, lying eyes. GUY LAB PARTNER What? My eyes are not lyir? GIRL LAB PARTNER I'm going to the infirmary, GUY LAB PARTNER Cood. Call me when you're OFF the rag, GIRL LAB PARTNER Fine. Call me when you learn how to love just one person.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   d continues constructing the apparatus. GIRL LAB PARTNER stalks off dramatically. Bleeker shakes his head a amburger phone and dials. For a moment, she attempts to copy the melodramatic pose from the ad, checking he ACKS the phone a couple of times. JUNO Better? Okay, good. Yeah, as I said, I need an abortion, two ...sixteen.
     Its really more of a novelty than a functional appliance. She SMACKs the phone a couple of times. JUND etter? Okay, good. Yean, as I said, I need an abortion, two ...sixteen...Um, it w ...sixteen...
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           JUNO V.O. My dad used to be in the Army, but now he's just your average HVAC specialist. He and my more for Juno's room. JUNO V.O. And I'm like, "Thanks a heap, Coyote Ugly. This cactus-gram stings even we fixed S - DAY Bren's nail salon in all its glory, JUNO V.O. ... owns a nail salon called Bren's Tens... INT BREN'S ver, sir? The one in which I moved an entire living room set from one lawn to another, or the one in which I clear day. MAC You sh
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             a. Maybe L.B. did it. We see Liberty Bell blithely pouring bacon bits onto her dinner. MAC Liberty Bell, voice) All babies want to get borned! All babies want to get borned! Juno recognizes the PROTES' huge crazy freakout because she took too many behavioral meds at once. She took off her clothes eart, you know. It can feel pain. And it has fingermails. JUNO Really? Fingermails? She considers the your hands where I can see them and surrender any bombs. Juno flashes her best jazz hands. JUN hish that paper for Worth's class yet? SU-CHIN No, not yet. I tried to work on i a little last night, but if you. JUNO Well, it was nice seeing you. She continues on toward the clinic entrance. SU-CHIN (calling or ane of bulletproof glass. The waiting room is semi-crowded, occupied mostly by pregnant women, teens a d eyebrow and arranges some paperwork on a clipboard. JUNO V.O. She thinks I'm using a fake name. Like RECEPTIONIST I need you to fill these out, both sides. And don't skip the hairy details. We need to know we we have intercourse. They make his balls smell like pie. JUNO Congrats. She takes a seat in the Waway, but immediately notices another waiting woman, who absently scratches her arm with long fake and sees the front door drift shut. Juno's figure recedes into the distance as she tears off down the str ad fiction and water stains, like someone read them in the tub. And the receptionist tried to give me the now we're sexually active. JUNO What does that even mean? Anyway, I got to thinking on the way ow is up a firstful of purple rubbers. PUNK RECEPTIONIST Would you like some free condoms? They're bot an issue of Family Digest and gingerly flips through for a few moments. Then she looks over and notice.
E Veryone seems to be fidegling with their fingers somehow. Juno suddenly looks terror-stricken. CUI ch. Leah sighs. LEAH What are you doing here, dumbass? I thought I was supposed to pick you up at f e baby had fingernails. Fingernails! LEAH Oh, gruesome. I wonder if the baby's claws could scratch your vag on the way out?
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          g. Or some nice lesbos. LEAH But then you'll get huge. Your chest is going to milktate. And you have to te you could look at one of those adoption ads. I see them all the time in the Penny Saver. JUNO There are at a bench in a park. They slurp giant blue slushies and sift through a pile of Penny Saver s. Juno has he different page) There's a guy in here who's giving away a piano . Free for the hauling! We should put it i shit and be super mad at you and not let you graduate or go to Cabo San Lucas for spring break. JU erriers and used fitness equipment. It's totally legit. JUNO Come on, Leah. I can't scope out wannab noment. Their lips and teeth are Windex-blue. LEAH Look at this one "Wholesome, spiritually weath themselves as "wholesome." I'm looking for something a little edgier. LEAH What did you have in m ian wife who dresses awesome and play s b a s s . But I'm trying to not be too particular, LEAH All right, how about this one love." JUNO Yeesh, they sound like a cult. Besides, they're greedy bitches. They already have three kids.

HOUSE - PAULIE'S WINDOW - NIGHT We see Paulie's bedroom window-- festooned with childish curt nt 'd) We see the ad. It contains a photo of an attractive couple with ambiguous Mona Lisa smiles. It reads "Edu ing to the same LP from when he and Juno went all the way. He stares between the pages of his emb onsiders and puts it down. There's a knock on the bedroom door. BLEEKER'S MOM pokes her dowdy couff called while you were out running. She wants to know if you're coming to her little coffeehouse p ge from Juno. We hear Juno's voice reading the message: JUNO V.O. Hey Bleeker! Spank off to this w EKER I'm not hungry, oddly. BLEEKER'S MOM But it's breakfast for supper. Your favorite, Paulie. I mades. BLEEKER'S MOM I just hope you don't consider her a close friend. Bleeker's mom gives up and cl ed? JUNO No. The school would probably contact you in the event of my expulsion. BREN Well, I was just asking. It si he had it in him! BREN (giggling). He just doesn't look, well, virile. LEAH I know, right? MA in the Penny Saver by the exotic birds section. Bren looks understandably alarmed. Juno h u don't even remember to give Liberty Bell her breathing meds. JUNO Once! And she didn they'll do incredible things for your nails, so 1 hat's a plus. Oh, and we need to sche is, satisfied, then contemplates the situat ton di smally. MAC I thought you were the intercourse. And I think Junebug was a dummy about it. But we have to move on fre lod yeah. But I was hoping she was expelled or into haird drugs. MAC That was my fit ouse for Juno's arrival - Sprucing a vase of FLOWERS. Straightening a FRAMED PHOTO of the L and I'm going to punch that Bleeker kid in the weiner th sa Loring have an impressive, though generic McMansion. The entire yard is unlandsce right? MAC Hello. Thank you for having me and my irresponsible child over to your how Super classy. Not like those other people with the fake woods in the background. Like the husband. INT. LORING HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - DAY Mark and Vanessa usher Ju is, of course, is my daughter Ju no. MARK Like the city in Alaska? JUNO No. MARK Co in Dancing Elk. She bares them frighteningly to de monstrate. Vanessa stares, unflap that's marvelous. So you'r e a lmost into your second trimester, then? JUNO Y re lucky it's not you. Vanessa's looks to the ceiling. MARK (clearing throat) So, let's dis e Moses in the reeds, MARK Technically, that would be kickin' it Old Testament. Mark and Juno lock eyes, JUNO Yeah. Yeah! The way people used to do it. Quick and dirty, like noid yuppies or something? JUNO Well, you don't just invite a random pregna id leave her unsupervised. I could be a total klepto, for all you know . M ARK I don 't ge ta klepto vibe from you. Evil genius? Maybe. Ars oni st? Wouldn't rule it out. JUNO I did steal a squ VJUNO You should be happy, Holmes. I'm giving you and Vanessa the gift of life. Sweet, screaming, pooping life! And you don't even have to be there when the baby comes out of me all covered in... MARK Viscera

7 JUNO Blood and guts. MARK We'd bett unted on the wall, and the edges of posters. MARK Oh. That's, uh, my room. Vanessa lets me have a room for all my old stuff. JUNO Wow, you get a whole room in your own house? She's got you on a long leash there, Mark. MARK Shru I. New INT. LORING HOU and hands it to Juno. JUNO It's beautiful. I've always liked Gilson better than Fender. MARK What do you play? JUNO I roke at Harmony. MARK (holding back a chuckle) oh. JUNO O What? I'm a paws hop rocker. MARK Sorry. I sever I'm not a gear snob. Jun ack when I lived in Chicago, and one night we opened for the Melvins...do you know who the Melvins are? JUNO (lying) Yeah. MARK Well, we were playing with them and I busted this guitar onstage. It cost me $800 and a dime bag just to have it fixed. JUNO I rou can't understand the magic. MARK You weren't even alive! INT. LORING HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - DAY Vanessa, Mac and Gerta Rauss are waiting in awkward silence for Juno and Mark to return. Mac notices a brand new PILATES MACHINE sitting in its packaging in a N ESSA You don't make anything. It's for exercising.INT. LORING HOUSE - MARK'S SPECIAL ROOM - SAME Mark and Juno tool around on the guitars unplugged. They play little riffs. He teaches her a couple chords.INT. LORING HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - SAME MARK My wife just ordered one of those Tony Little Gazelles off the e. Sud denly, a shriek of AMP FEEDBACK, followed by loud, discordant GuiTar S TRUMMING can be heared drifting down from upstairs. Vanessa's looks to the ceiling. VANESSA (to heg uses a shriek of AMP FEEDBACK, followed by loud, discordant GuiTar S TRUMMING can be heared drifting down from upstairs. Vanessa's looks to the ceiling. VANESSA (to he guestian the support of the control of the control of the control of the guitar shriek of the guitar shriek doesn't notice he guitar. Mark for the guitar shriek doesn't notice he guitar shriek doesn't notice her guitar. Mark for shriek doesn't notice her guitar. Mark f s on and are in the process of leaving. Gerta hands Juno the DOCUMENT Vanessa and Mark trail behind. GERTA So, look those over and give me a call at my office if you have any questions. VANESSA Juno, we'd really appreciate it if you could keep us updated on any doctor's appointments, ultrasounds, other things of that nature. JUNO Oh. Sure. Of ca this? Mac STARES at Juno gravely. JUNO Yeah. For sure. I like you guys. J w? MAC I think that's a great idea. MARK That's great, right? Stellar news. We II, MORNING It is now WiNTER. The TRACK TEAM jogs in formation, leaving ltx or so the south of the ooking over Juno's now FIVE MONTH PREGNANT BELLY to a school administrator filling out a slip. Juno takes the slip, turns around and smiles all the way out.INT. DANCING ELK SCHOOL - CORRIDOR - DAY Juno exits the head office and bumps into Bleeker. BLEEKER Hey Juno... A couple of us are going to the cineplex after school to donut that movie with the guy with eighteen kids. JUNO S und. Gotta note and everything. BLEEKER Okay, cool. JUNO I'll try to drop by later. INT. DOCTOR'S OFFICE - AFTERNOON SPLOOGE! We see ultrasound goo being squ D TECH Oh. Well, thank goodness for that. BREN Wait, what's that supposed to mean? ULTRASOUND TECH I just see a lot of te ners come through here. It's obviously a poisonous envir nts! BREN They could be utterly negligent. Maybe they'll do a far shittier job of raising a kid than my dumbass stepdaughter ever would considered that? ULTRASOUND TECH No...I guess not. BREN What is your job title, exactly? ULTR. eithis Brick They could be utterly negligent, mayoe filey in or a lar stritter joo or raising a front and ny duminosas steploadigner ever wor, exchinicing, and I think we both ought to stick to what we know. ULTRASOUND TECH What are you talking about? BREN You think yo ht school in Manteno and learn a real tradel The ULTRASOUND TECH exits in a huff. JUNO Bren, you're a dick! I love it, INT. JUNO? "Glacial Valley." EXT. LORING HOUSE - ENTRY - AFTERNOON Juno rings the doorbell, shifting her weight in the cold. MARK answer off for when, you know... He gestures awkwardly to Juno's belly. JUNO Right. I hear they can be kind of a time-suck. MARK Come or RNOON Mark leads Juno into the kitchen, where he pours two drinks. The STEREO blares in the background, JUNO Why aren't you because you get to play Picture Pages up there? Bren gestures to the ULTRASOUND MONITOR. BREN My f M - DAY Juno lays in bed checking out the ULTRASOUND PRINT OUT. EXT. LORING NEIGHBORHOOD - P
, dressed in a t-shirt and jeans. MARK Juno? Wow, I didn't expect to see you here. JUNO I've go tso na Ginseng Cooler? JUNO Sure. What is it with you rich people and your herb-infused juic MARK I mostly work from home. I'm a composer. JUNO No shit. Like Johannes Brahms? MAR out? What would the Melvins say? MARK They'd say you came a long way out here not know ark it, dude. Mark sits down. With great fanfare, Juno retrieves a dark, glossy sheet from the 's the dad. Mark looks jolted, as if it's the first time he considered that her baby might have a f men's deodorant? JUNO (singing) Titanium Powerl Get more snatch by the batch! MARK I wrote that. JUNO You're kind of a sell NG HOUSE - DEN - AFTERNOON As they move into the living room, Juno sits down and motions for Mark to join her on the cou INES the ultrasound, baffled, JUNO I think it kind of looks like my friend, Paulie. MARK (joking) Is, he bald and amorphous? J cided not to know. I want it to be a big surprise. MARK Well, it can really only go two ways. JUNO That's what you think. I drink to epmom is forcing me to eat really healthy. She won't even let me stand in front of the microwave or eat red M&Ms. Hope you're legindin is forcing free to ear feath relating. See won't even it the stant of front of the frictowave or ear feet makes. Hope you feet in girls Sonic Youth doing "Superstar" by the Carpenters. JUNO (excited) I've heard the Carpenters before. Chick drummer and free you loved me, baby... JUNO Hey, I like this. MARK This albulm is all Carpenters covers by alt-rock bands. It's called If I Were a boaunch. Mark walks over to his music collections and starts pulling CD's. He's got a Carpenter's disc, the "No Alternative" charity to completely demented. We're talking buckets of goo. Red com syrup everywhere. And fake brains up the yin-yang, JUNO (examinit taste in slasher movies, Mark. MARK Here's to dovetailing interests. He raises his mug in a toast and Juno clinks it awkwardly.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         ned me after Zeus's wife. I mean, Zeus had other lays, but I'm pretty sure Juno was his only wife. She was supposed to be really t Vanessa. Shit, you better get out of here. JUNO Why? What the big deal? MARK Nothing. She just hates when I sit around watch rsized shopping bags. VANESSA Mark? Are you home? I want to show you some things I picked up. Juno intercepts her breathle case scenarios. Her eyes are wide and she's uncharacteristically ruffled. VANESSA Is the baby okay? JUNO Sure. It's the right s be my mommy?" VANESSA Yeah. Yeah, it kind of does. MARK Juno was nice enough to bring this by for us. JUNO I came over of emotion.INT. LORING HOUSE - ENTRY WAY - DAY Vanessa and Mark walk Juno out. Juno peers at some shopping bags fro mber she got about a million presents. They were all lame though, so I wasn't jealous. MARK I doubt anyone's throwing us a show ces at Mark and again at Vanessa. Vanessa looks embarrassed. MARK Cold feet. JUNO You should have gone to China. I heard or you guys again. She waves and heads for the door, MARK (to Juno) Hey, don't forget your bag. Vanessa looks pain-stricke EN - NIGHT Bren sits at the kitchen table with a mug of coff ee and an issu Juno Mar Rendered Substitution of the straight of the straight ig? JUNO I drove to St. Cloud to show Mark and Vanessa the ultrasound. And I wound up staying for a couple of hours, BREN A c ned The Wizard of Gore and he burned me some CDs of weird music. He's kind of cool. A beat as Bren absorbs this. BREN That was a lends who are married. BREN It doesn't work that way, kiddo. You don't know squat about the dynamics of marriage. JUNO You don't k getting Weimaraners. JUNO Wow, dream big! BREN Oh, go fly a kite. Bren STORMS out. J un o he ads to the URN by the door and despecting Weimaraners.
     nce. But now she looks a hob bit. The fat one that was in The Goonies. BLEEKER'S MOM Hi Juno. What can I do for you? JUNO I borrowed Paulie's physics notes in school today. I'm pretty sure he nee nts her from getting past Bleeker's mom. They share an extremely awkward moment wedged side-by-side in the narrow hallway. Bleecker's mom nudges past so on Bleeker's bedroom door. The door has a chee sy rall ecart-the me d decoration hanging on it that says PAULE'S VRROUOM!! It looks like something a 5-year old might have. INT. BLEEKER HOUSE - PAULE'S BEDROOM - NIGHT Paulie is on the floor surrounded by old EEKER'S MOM Ten minutes. She closes the door halfway and leaves. J u n or lolls her eyes and pulls the door shut entirely. BLEEKER What's up? JUNO I just wanted to come over. You know, say hi. I miss hanging out with you on school nights. BLEEKEREKER I miss it to door shut entirely. BLEEKER HOUSE - PAULIE'S BEDROOM - NIGHT Bleeker glan ces at Juno's midsection, embarrassed. BLEEKER So, it looks like ey like? JUNO The guy is super cool! His name is Mark and he's in to old horror movies and he plays guitar. I actually hung out with him today. BLEEKER Is that normal? JUNO I asked my dod and Bren not to narcu us out to yo ur folks, so we should be safe. BLEEKER Oh. That's a relief Juno titul. Juno is caught off guard by his sincerity. JUNO Just, Bleek BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this narbine has one; "the track that Bleeker and Juno both recognize from the infamous ment. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not to some the some playing the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not the some playing the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not to some playing has a control of the play of the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not to some playing has a control of the play of the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not the play of the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not the play of the play is not the play of the basement. BLEEKER Hey Junebug, when all this play is not the play of the play is not the play of the play in the basement. Bleeker Reference is not the play of the play of zes, studying like the tortured brainlac he is. Mrs. Bleeker opens the bedroom door. Juno appears. Paulie jumps, startled. JUNO Hey, don't con ce ntr ate so hard, man. I think I smell hair burning. Bleeker smile so open a co nta ine r of ORANGE TIC-TACS and pours them into his mouth. JUNO V.O. Orange Tic-Tacs are Bleeker's one and only vice. When we made out, the day I got pregnant, his mouth tasted really tare getting pregnant-er rhese days. JUNO Veah. Um, I hooked up a whole private adoption thing. The married people in Saint Cloud are going to be the parents. Bleeker is visibly relieved. BLEEKER Reb. BLEEKER I always think you're cu te. I think of the bed and sits down next to Bleeker. JUNO I'm going to really start looking like a dork soon. Will you still think I'm cute if I'm huge? JUNO V.O. (cont' d) BLEEKER I always think you're cu te. I think
                                                                                                                                                                                          e. Once Tino gets a new drum head we should be goo d to go. BLEEK ER We could get back together too. JUNO Were we together? Bleeker picks at the car nessa beams proudly and holds two paint samples up near the wall. VANESSA What to Expect says that readying the baby's going to storm in here any second and demand dessert-colored walls. VANESSA What to Expect says that readying the baby's room is an important process for women. It's called "nesting." MARK Nesting, huh? Are you planning to build the crib out of twigs an ise nursery's largest wall. VANESSA That wall is going to need something. Maybe we could put our first family picture there. MARK Hm. VANESSA can you see it? Mark stares at the wall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall, looking lost. INT. RIDGEDALE MALL A DAY Juno and Leah are walking through the mall repeat the mall repeat was a plant over Juno and Leah are walking through the wall repeat and the wall repeat was a plant over Juno and Leah are wa HOUSE - NURSERY - DAY Mark and Vanessa stand silently in the nursery. The walls are primed slate gray. A single ANTIQUE ROCKING CHAIR sits in the tet know one man with a yellow bedroom. VANESSA I think I'm leaning toward Custard in this light. I don't know. I should paint a small area... MARK Or you could an flagged the "daddy chapters" for you. MARK I just think it's too early to paint. That's my opinion. VANESSA And I disagree. Mark shrugs, resigned. Vanessa p al maternity wear. Leah gnaws on a giant cinnamon pretzel. LEAH Yum. This pretzel tastes like a friggin' donut! JUNO Share the love, Tits! She wrestles women and their children shopping en masse. One of the women is pushing a toddler in an ultramodern stroller. And one of the women is VANESSA, ic All Annual Annual Confusing of Interest in the Standard S 1 And I was like, "No offense, sweetie, but nobody looks good in gauchos." WOMAN #2 Especially not with her build. JUNO (minicking the women, Pean he other kids wander over toward the play area while their mothers ignore them. Vanessa continues to entertain the children. LEAH Bo-ring! Leah stands d. JUNO Well hi Vanessa! What brings you to the mall today? VANESSA Just, you know, shopping with my girlfriends. LEAH You're gay? Juno glares at IO Dude, it's moshing all over. Vanessa looks confused. JUNO (CONT'D) (explains) It's kicking. Vanessa nods in understanding then begins summon ANESSA It's not moving for me. She says this as though it's an admission of failure. JUNO Oh, you should try talking to it. They can apparently hear s n. EXT. SUBURBAN STREETS - MORNING The streets are covered in muddy, subusy snow. The mud is instantly TRAMPLED underfoot by the collective feet of the Dancing Elk Track Team on their morning run.INT. MAGGUFF HOUSE - BREN'S DESK - DAY Bren cuts the top three inches when any people seem to part the waters for the belly. INT. LORING HOUSE - MARK'S "SPECIAL ROOM" - DAYMark has the Les Paul on his lap as he stares at the boards of an awful commercial. CU - THE SCRIPT (storyboards). A kitchen scene with a kid eating a new breakfast product called - BRUNCH Bops his head, dejected. Then, the phone rings. MARK (picks up) Hello? INTERCUT WITH:INT. DANCING ELK SCHOOL - PHONE BOOTH - DAY JUNO So, I've been spending a lot of time listening to that weird Copy or made me. Mark instantly smiles. MARK On reality what's the verdical PUNO I so will be added to say his MARK Go reality of the sound of the superior of y, VANESSA (CONTD) Oh my God - It moved! I felt it! JUNO (nods) Elbow. VANESSA Wow! It's magical. Juno smiles at Vanessa in awe of her ger aching an elastic waistband.INT. DANCING ELK SCHOOL - CORRIDOR - DAY We're behind that same WAISTBAND, as Juno walks through the stu-tou song... MARK IF YOU'RE TIRED OF BREAKFAST BUT NOT HUNGRY FOR LUNCH, MICROWAVE YOURSELF A HEALTHY BOWL OF BRUN n you're used to the raw power of Iggy and the Stooges, everything else sounds kind of precious by comparison. MARK I imagine you have a collec bo of pregnant food. Pull up to find Juno and Leah walking their travs to a table, LEAH God, you're getting huge. How many months has it been now?
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    LEAH Lish my funbags w ould get bigger. JUNO Trust me, you don't. I actually have to wear a bra now. And I have to rub this nasty coocab utter stuff all over myself or my skin could get stretched too far and explome. LEAH H of some look derisive, others are amused. JUNO Go ill beardy! We see KEITH the teacher talking to so 's whole house reeks of soup! LEAH Oh, it totally O I'm not jealous, and I don't care. I just know he go prom with Katrina De Voor?'s LEEKER VIII, and to me science ki was there for her birthday about four years ago and it was like Lipton Landing. But you know, boys have endured worse things for nookie. JUNO There's no way in hell they're having sex or even doesn't like Katrina and I don't hink he should toy with her emotions like that. She seems so nice and all. LEAH Okay Juno promise to you were going with her. BLEEKER Yeah, hi? JUNO Leah just told me you were going with her. BLEEKER Yeah, I should her venylore is making fun of me behind my back, despite the fact that vour little girlfriend gave me the stinkeye in art class yesterday... BLEEKER Katrina's not my girlfriend! And I doubt she wa an think of something way more cool to do that ni u don't have any reason to be mad at me. You broke my heart. I should be really beesed off. I shouldn't was leaded to you man. I should be really beesed off. I shouldn't was leaded to you man and the promise of the promis
                                                                                                                                                                                                        Some look derisive, others are amused, JUNO Go all beardy! We see KEITH the teacher talking to so ha's whole house reeks of soup! LEAH Oh, it totally NO I'm not jealous, and I don't care. I just know he ng to prom with Katrina De Voort?BLEEKER Um.
                                                                                                                                                                                                         . - BLEEKER'S LOCKER - DAY Bleeker retrieves a book from his open locker. Juno marches up to him, belly leading the way. JUNO Are you honestly retch limo. JUNO Your mom must be really glad you're not taking me. BLEEKER You're mad. Why are you mad? JUNO I'm not mad. I'm in a fucking g all the time. A GIRL strides past (obviously KATRINA) with a sour look aimed squarely at Juno. JUNO Whatever. Have fun at the prom with Soupy Sal
. JUNO (turning around) What? Bleeker BRACES himself and pushes up his lab goggles. JUNO That's not how our thing works! I hurl the accusations ou would be the meanest wife of all time. And anyway, I know you weren't bored that day because there was a lot of stuff on TV. The Blair Witch Proje nd, panicked) Oh my God, SHUT UP! JUNO What? Are you ashamed that we did it? BLEEKER No... JUNO Well at least you don't have to walk aroun ari undo? She turns around, wipes TEARS of her cheek (a. ... Jow Well at least, you don't read you and she will be the cheek (a. ... to well at least you don't read you and she will be the will be the will be t Fruitful Yuki is bad ass, man. You should be proud to be t list he room. Mark Laughs. JUNO What? MARK I actual I ly know this one. JUNO You do? MARK Yeak, his song's older than me, if you can believe that. I dance with? Mark Laughs. JUNO What? MARK I actual I ly know this one year between the me, if you can believe than the floople so it's All the your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Pust is hands on what remains on Mark's waist and moves back and forth JUNO I don't know. They SWAY slowly to the music. Ju ve got it all planned out. It's something between us. They laugh, Juno rests her head on Mark's direction with a KEE-YAl Juno is sincerely pleased. JUNO (quiet at first) What? MARK I'ls just not work on planned out. It's something between us. They laugh, Juno rests her head on Mark's direction with a Kee-Yal Juno is sincerely pleased. Juno's waist. She drapes her arms around him had and what the manies on what remains around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your waist. Then you put your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your waist. Then you put your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your waist. Then you put your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your waist. Then you put your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your waist. Then you put your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let me put my hads on your arms around my neck. That's how we do! it in '8' Mark Rust let may be a done her way and the put my hads on your arms around my neck. That's almost interesting, Mark Alas's almost interesting, Mark A what is the finaller? MARK Sire is a part of the whole process. AVAINESSA (you do who what is a part of the whole process and the separation of the whole process. AVAINESSA (you do who what is relarly the left. That's how we're prepared. ValueSSA (you do who what is relarly the left. That's how we're prepared. Upsit don't know wa're prepared to water prepared to water prepared. Upsit don't know wa're prepared to water prepared to water prepared to water prepared. Upsit don't know wa're prepared to water prepare NT. PREVIA - AFTERNOOM Juno buckles over the steering wheel, crying, unwinding for the first time since she became pregnant. After a beat, she begins to gather herseft. INT. BLEEKER'S BEDROOM - NIGHT Juno gath as a part on the modified of that pass, on the mode of the previal considers. Wheel she is a part of the previal of the previa EEKER HOUSE - MORNING Bleeker steps out of the house for his usual early-morning run. He looks down to see a message scrawled in chalk on the entidously arrayed as usual, are doing hurder stretches. They stare at her quizzically. Bleeker spot unload on you. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno an eave free message scrawled in chalk on the mailbox. At least one hundred containers exert was usual, are doing hurder stretches. They stare at her quizzically. Bleeker spot unload on you. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approaching and jogs up to the chainlink fence. BLEEKER Why? JUNO (blushes) Juno approach whey. Action and the proposed properties of the full was made an exercise of the full was made an exercise of the full was addressed like, "Juno approach and the full was addressed like," Juno and ju Interview of the control of the cont honey. On your terms, Juno nods and swallows. Over Mac's shoulder, a silhouette appears in the doorway. I

G SUITE - EVENING Juno lies on the bed. She looks rested and relaxed compared to her earlier crying j aiir reverently, JUNO V.O. I think he was always hers. INT. LORING HOUSE - NURSERY - DAY Trying j wire still in, I'm still in. Juno." We move to the door and get a view of Vanessa's bedroom. We see her lyin ression of pure bliss. EXT. MACGUFF HOUSE - DAY It's a sparkling summer afternoon. Juno wheel nere's that air of stillness and accomplishment, a task completed. The doctors have cleared out. Mac sits in a chair next to the bed looking like he's not sure what to say. He holds up a deck of Playing cards as if to initiate a game, but Juno gently pushes his hand away. Their eyes meet. His expression is helpless, hers is utterly drained. MAC Someday, you'll be back here, ward the bed. Mac clears his throat, gets up and leaves the room. Paulie climbs onto the hospital bed and carefully puts his arm around Juno. She leans into him, letting herself go for the first time in months. INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - BIRT
     's Bleeker in his track uniform. Juno sees him and bursts into sudden, ragged sobs. Mac glances at her, alarmed, Paulie move decided the decided he didn't want to see the baby. Neither did I, really. He didn't feel like ours. INT. HOSPITAL MATE IN A MATERIAL WARD - EVENING We see 'Vanessa leaning over the bassinet, unable to take her eyes off the baby, touching it's h sitting empty. JUNO V.O. It ended with a chair. We pan past the wall Vanessa had said "needed something." There's a framed note on the wall. It looks like it was handwritten on the back of a Jiffy Lube bill. We see that it says: "V an essa - If yo redibly happy. There are formula bottles on the bedside table and a bassinet pushed close to the bed. Obviously, she hasn't been away from the baby for a single moment. The baby reaches up and grabs Vanessa's thumb. Van essa glows with an e g in bed with a burp cloth draped over her shoulder, feeding the baby. For the first time ever, Vanessa looks disorganized, uns howered--and i gin bed with a burp cloth draped over her shoulder, feeding the baby. For the first time ever, Vanesas a thunk of the data for she by to Bren, who is playing in the year wares good byte to Bren, who is playing in the pass a plows with an expension of the pass a possible and pass a plow byte to Bren, who is playing in the pass a plows with an expension of the pass and pass a plows with an expension of the pass and engo, not doubt about it! An average propring TOUGH GIRL wearing an oversized jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of makeup gapes at Juno from the beauty aisle. TOUGH GIRL Balls ut of the girls' jacket and lots of which gards and lots of the girls' jacket and lots of which gards and lots of the girls' jacket and lots of which gards and lots of the gards and lots
```